DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Munshi, U.S. Pat. No. 6,645,675

Rejection of claims 1-12 drawn to a composite polymer electrolyte; claims 13-14 drawn to a method of manufacturing a composite polymer electrolyte.

Munshi teaches a composite polymer electrolyte for a lithium secondary battery (col. 5, lines 18-40) which comprises a first polymer matrix made of a first porous polymer; a second polymer matrix and made of an ion conductor, an inorganic material, and a second porous polymer; and an electrolyte solution impregnated into the first and second polymer matrices (col. 6, lines 29-64). It teaches the first porous polymer is polyvinylidene fluoride (col. 6, lines 35-45). It teaches the single ion conductor is methylmethacrylate (col. 14, lines 45-50). It teaches the second polymer is a vinylidene fluoride based polymer (col. 7, lines 1-5). It teaches the inorganic material is silica or alumina (col. 10, lines 61-64). It teaches the inorganic material is added in an amount of about 0.1-60% (col. 9, lines 25-41). It teaches the thickness of the polymer matrix is 2-100 microns (col. 7, lines 19-22; col. 22, lines 8-10). It teaches the electrolyte is 1-99% by weight (col. 15, lines 29-40). It teaches the lithium salt is lithium chlorate (col. 15, lines 3-10). It teaches about 1-25% by wt lithium salt (col. 7, lines 25-34). It teaches a method of manufacturing an electrolyte for a lithium secondary battery comprising preparing a first polymer, dissolving a single ion conductor, inorganic material and second polymer in a predetermined ratio to produce a solution, coating the polymers, and impregnating the polymers with electrolyte solution (Examples 1-5). It teaches a co-solvent of ethanol (col. 17, lines 55-60).

Thus, the claims are anticipated.

However, if the claims are not anticipated, they are obvious over the prior art of record because although the prior art of record does not teach a second polymer has a second pore size smaller than the first pore size of the first polymer, if the first polymer is a different type of polymer from the second polymer, they would have different sizes; and from the list of polymers in the prior art of record, the second polymer would have a smaller pore size than the first polymer.
